The cost of new equipment can be prohibitive. Financial institutions may need a more affordable method of equipment purchasing. Our refurbished gear can get the job done.

When purchasing equipment for your financial institution, it can be a good idea to look at refurbished. Here are some reasons why refurbished could suit your needs:

Savings

The most compelling reason is obviously savings. Refurbished equipment can save you as much as 50 percent on your equipment purchases.

More for your money

When new equipment is introduced, manufacturers offer a range of options from entry-level to top-of-the-line. Of course you could buy the basic model brand new, but for the same money you could get the best option refurbished.

Fight obsolescence

Hardware, software, operating systems and everything else is being updated and improved constantly. Sometimes this renders older versions obsolete. Purchasing refurbished gives the ability to update more frequently at lower costs, meaning less spending to maintain current systems.

Maintain compatibility

Many companies require all equipment must use the same specifications, but when one breaks down or a new device needs to be added, it can be difficult to find the exact same model new. Refurbished equipment can offer models identical to those already in use at your financial institution, and at a cheaper cost.

Reliability

The first release of anything comes with bugs and issues not fully worked out. Manufacturers need time to recognize issues in the real world when equipment is released. Refurbished equipment has been tested in the field, and any bugs or concerns have been recognized and corrected.
